

REVEL, IN DEPTH · EPISODE 5

The waitlist

Narration script · English

VIDEO FILE	RUNTIME	LINES	WORDS	LANGUAGE
ep-waitlist.mp4	61.1 s	6	155	English

THE TONE

Warm, human and honest — like explaining something to a friend, not reading ad copy. No hype, no hard sell. The sentences are short because they are spoken, not read. Let them breathe.

READING NOTES

Each line is timed to what happens on screen. The duration on the left is how long that line has in the picture — treat it as a target, not a cage. The gaps between lines are real silence in the cut; you do not need to fill them.

HOW TO SAY IT

Revel	REV -uhl — as in “revelry”. Never “re-VEL”.
lets revel dot io	Written out on purpose. Say it as the address: “let’s revel dot I-O”.
R S V P	Spelled out, letter by letter: “are-ess-vee-pee”.
Q R code	Spelled out: “cue-are code”.
V A T	Spelled out: “vee-ay-tee”.
Stripe	The payment company. English, as written.
Mira, Ren, Noa, Jordan, Bea, Lena, Felix, Paul	Characters in the demos. Say them naturally.

1 Episode five. The waitlist. A full event, from the point of view of the person who got there too late.
00:00–00:07
6.6 s

— 1.4 s of silence —

2 It's full. Two places, both taken. But instead of a dead end there's a waitlist. One click, and you're in the queue.
00:08–00:15
7.3 s

3 That's it. You're on the list, and you can leave it any time. Behind the scenes, the organizer can see who is waiting, and manage it.
00:16–00:24
8.2 s

— 2.9 s of silence —

4 Here's that side. The list stays honest: who's waiting, since when, and a button to offer someone a place by hand. And if the organizer adds a place, or someone drops out, the next person is told.
00:27–00:39
12.6 s

— 3.4 s of silence —

5 And there it is. A place opened up, the notification came, with a deadline so it doesn't sit unclaimed. Close it, and the R S V P is yours to take.
00:43–00:53
10.3 s

6 Full doesn't have to mean no. Revel is free and open source. Find it at lets revel dot io.
00:53–01:00
6.7 s

End of script — 6 lines, 61.1 s of picture.